The subject, whose father changed the family name from LEVY to LAWSON, was born on September 25, 1895 in New York City. LAWSON attended Cutler School in New York and was graduated from Williams College in 1914. For a time he was employed as an editor in the New York Office of Reuters Limited and in 1917 went abroad where he served in the volunteer ambulance service with the French Army and was later transferred to the Italian front. After the war LAWSON lived in Paris and later was foreign correspondent in Rome for about two years following which he returned to the United States and his first play was produced by the Actors' Theater in 1923.

LAWSON has been married twice, first to KATHRYN DRAIN in 1919, and he is presently married to SUSAN EDMOND LAWSON and has a son and a daughter.

DECLASSIFIED BY 3668-SID/mde
ON 6-22-95 (JFK)

In the 1930's LAWSON became interested in screen writing and made a number of trips to Hollywood and moved to Los Angeles in September of 1941. LAWSON has written "Blockade", "Algiers", "Sahara", "Action in North Atlantic", "Counter-Attack", and has recently finished a screen play entitled "Smash-up" for WALTER WANGER. It has been alleged that LAWSON was first brought to Hollywood by V. J. JEROME to supplement the leadership of the Communist Movement in the Motion Picture Industry, which was then exercised by the film director, HERBERT BIBERMAN. LAWSON and BIBERMAN have always been closely associated but from all indications it appears now that JOHN HOWARD LAWSON is the leader of the Communist Movement in the Motion Picture Industry.
